

Notes on Contributors / Collaboratrices

Kathryn Alexander is presently a graduate student in the Faculty of Education at Simon Fraser University. 'What is a poet doing in Academia?' she frequently asks herself. At this point, she is investigating linkages between Literacy, Psychiatry and Feminist Language theory.

Anne-Marie Alonzo, née à Alexandrie en 1951, vit depuis 1963 à Montréal. Elle collabore à plusieurs publications dont le magazine féministe la Vie en rose. Elle est cofondatrice de la revue Trois. Bleus de mine, le plus récent de ces quatre livres, lui valut le prix Emile Nelligan en 1986. Soile paraître bientôt, tout comme Nous en reparlerons sans daoute, en collaboration avec Raymonde April et Denise Desautels. Elle travaille présentement à Sable fous des dunes.

Louise Cotnoir a collaboré à plusieurs revues littéraires au Québec, au Canada, et en Europe. Elle a été co-directrice de la revue 'La Nouvelle Barre du Jour' (1981-1984). Elle est l'auteure de L'Audace des mains (poésie) Editions de Noroît (1987); de Comme une chienne à la mort (poésie - 1987), de La sujeté d'intérêt (essai - 1988) et de Signature païenne (poésie - 1989), tous trois publiés aux Editions du Remue-Ménage.

Renée-Berthe Drapeau est née en 1959 à Sherbrooke où elle a fait toutes ses études. En 1981, elle collabore à diverses revues, dont La nouvelle barre du jour, Moebius et Passages. Elle participe également à quelques livres collectifs sur la chanson au Québec: Les aires de la chanson québécoises et La chanson dans tous ses états. En 1986, elle publie un essai, Féminins singuliers, sur les pratiques d'écriture de Nicole Brosseau et de France Théoret. En 1988 paraît N'entendre qu'un son, son premier roman.

Sandy Frances Duncan has integrated her name and will no longer publish as Frances Duncan, but she is one and the same, more or less. She lives on Gabriola Island, B.C. Pattern Makers, her sixth book, will be published by Women's Press, Toronto, fall 1989. She continues to alternate between novels with child, and novels with adult, protagonists. Her latest children's novel, No State of Grace, will be published by Kids Can Press, Toronto, 1990.

Ecrivaine et critique littéraire, Louise Dupré a publié des textes dans plusieurs revues et anthologies québécoises et étrangères. Comme poète, elle a fait paraître aux Editions du Remue-ménage La peau familière en 1983 (Prix Alfred-Des Rochers), Chambres en 1986 et Bonheur en 1988. Elle a publié aux Editions de La nouvelle barre du jour Où en 1984 et, en collaboration avec Normand de Bellefeuille, 'Quand on a une langue, on peut aller à Rome' en 1986. S'intéressant à l'écriture au féminin, elle a collaboré à l'essai collectif La théorie, un dimanche en 1988 et donné Stratégies du vertige, Trois poètes: Nicole Brossard, Madeleine Gagnon, France Théoret en 1989, tous deux parus aux Editions de Remue-ménage. Elle est membre du comité de rédaction de la revue Voix et images et enseigne la littérature à l'Université de Québec à Montréal.

Claire Harris came to Canada from Trinidad in 1966. Her books include Fables from the Women's Quarters (1984) for which she won a Commonwealth Award, Travelling to Find a Remedy (1986) which won the Alberta Culture Award, and her most recent, The Conception of Winter (1989).

Elizabeth Hay was born in Owen Sound, Ontario. She has published stories in The Canadian Forum and The Malahat Review. Her first book of stories, Crossing the Snow Line, was published this fall by Black Moss Press. Currently she lives in New York City.

Linda Hutcheon teaches English and Comparative Literature at the University of Toronto. She is the author of Narcissistic Narrative (1980), Formalism and the Freudian Aesthetic (1984), A Theory of Parody (1985), A Poetics of Postmodernism (1988), The Canadian Postmodern (1988), and The Politics of Postmodernism (1989).

Marlene Kadar is a Canada Research Fellow and Assistant Professor affiliated with the Humanities Division and the Robarts Centre for Canadian Studies at York University. She has recently published Essays in Life Writing through the Robarts Centre and is working on a Reader in Life Writing for Oxford University Press. She has been with the Women's Press in Toronto since 1982, where she founded the Translation Group with Rona Moreau, and edited and published Gail Scott's Spaces Like Stairs. Right now she is preparing a book of critical essays on life writing for the University of Toronto Press, and theorizing the genre across ethnic and feminist borders for a larger theoretical project. She has also been working on two long-term editing projects: Frida Kahlo's 'portrait-letters' to Ella Wolfe, and Earle Birney's early correspondence with Canadian and American political thinkers and writers.

Kathy Mezei teaches Canadian and Quebec literature at Simon Fraser University, and writes on feminist theory as well as literary translation.

Marlene Nourbese Philip is a poet, writer and lawyer who lives in the City of Toronto. She has published two books of poetry, Thorns and Salmon Courage. Her first novel, Harriet's Daughter was published in 1988. Her manuscript collection of poetry, She Tries Her Tongue was awarded the 1988 Casa de las Americas prize and will be published in 1989. Marlene Nourbese Philip's essays, reviews and articles have appeared in magazines and journals in Canada and the USA. She is presently at work on a murder mystery featuring a chain-smoking, tough-talking black, feminist lawyer from Toronto.

Libby Scheier is the author of two books of poetry, The Larger Life (Black Moss Press, 1983) and Second Nature (Coach House, 1986). Her work in this issue is from 'Sky: A Poem in Four Parts,' current work-in-progress. Her short fiction and criticism have been published in numerous periodicals; her fiction has been anthologized in Love and Hunger, edited by Beverley Daurio (Aya Press, 1988), her criticism in In the Feminine (Longspoon Press, 1985), and her poetry in Poetry by Canadian Women, edited by Rosemary Sullivan (Oxford University Press, 1989). She teaches creative writing at York University.

Janice Williamson co-edited Up and Doing: Canadian Women and Peace (with Deborah Gorham, Women's Press, 1989), and is completing Sounding the Difference: Interviews with 15 Canadian Women Writers. She writes and teaches English and Women's Studies at the University of Alberta. Tell Tale Signs will be published in 1991 by Turnstone Press.

*"Writing which addresses the root assumptions...
the very ground on which we're standing..."*
