

Liminaire

With this issue, the Tessera editorial collective welcomes Julie Murray and Lauren Gillingham. Julie lives and works in Toronto, and is a graduate student at York University. She brings to the collective an ongoing interest in the relation of feminism to contemporary cultural formations. Lauren is also a Toronto-based doctoral candidate, with strong editorial skills from her background in publishing, and an active interest in feminist research and politics.